HEAVIEST DAY IN WALL STREET

Total Sales of Stocks Exceed Anything Ever Known on the Exchange.

The sales on the stock exchange to-day broke all previous records, the aggregate running up to 2,382,500 shares, compared with the previous record on Friday last of 2,193,400 shares.

In to-day's total were comprised such dealings in individual stocks as 312,800 shares Southern Pacific, 213,100 St. Paul, 161,800 Union Pacific, 137,200 Brooklyn Rapid Transit, 125,500 United States Steel and from 50,000 to 100,000 shares in an extended list of prominent stocks.

These figures break all previous records both in the aggregate of all sales and in the total sales for individual stocks.

A violent break in prices marked the closing hour of the stock market this afternoon. The market closed after a day of tremendous business with an average level below Saturday's closing.

The highly manipulative character of some of the stock movements was perceived by the bears and they offered pieces down to take the market away from the bulls, who were seeking to realize. Some violent releases in prices were the result.

St. Paul dropped back 7 to below Saturday and Union Pacific fell 4 1/2 below the high level. Northwest lost 5 points. The selling pressure became urgent all through the day and the bulls unloaded stocks in a precipitate manner.

The reaction ran from 1 to 3 points in the principal active stocks, carrying the average level of the market well below Saturday's close. Making of quick profits by the bears caused a few sharp rallies, but the closing generally was active and weak.

Opening Rush to Buy.

The market opened up with a rush to buy, and in the first hour 682,700 shares changed hands. By noon this amount increased to 1,072,000 shares. Then things became slack, only to resume later.

As an instance of the tremendous business done it may be said that 200,000 shares of Southern Pacific alone were dealt in between noon and 2 o'clock.

It was a market of selling as well as of buying, and several of the most prominent shares showed indications of reaction. As a whole, however, the market was steady and strong, with transactions throughout the entire list.

The chief feature at the opening was the volume and size of the transactions. Enormous blocks of stocks were offered and an quickly snapped up. Transactions of 100 to 150,000 shares were recorded, the latter for Union Pacific.

Copper Down Seven Points.

There were gains of 1 to 1 1/2 in Union Pacific, St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Metropolitan Street Railway, New York Central, Northwestern, Pennsylvania and Brooklyn Transit. Southern Pacific was 1/8, 2 1/8, Amalgamated Copper sold at 121 1/2, down to 119 on the eve of 100 shares, compared with 121 on Saturday, and then went up to 125 in the first few minutes. Copper sales mounted to 120,000 shares.

Over eight hundred of the members of the Exchange were on the floor executing orders at the opening, while the galleries were unable to accommodate all of the spectators who wished to see the mad scramble to sell and buy stocks. The market continued extremely irregular during the noon hour and the volume of business was notably smaller. St. Paul fell back 3 points and the Grangers and Coalers were generally lower. Strength was to be seen only in spots.

The local transactions made slight additional advances. Missouri Pacific touched 110, and Chicago & Alton rose 3 points, with some sympathetic response in the "HONEST" J. KELLY IS A BANKRUPT.

After Selling His Gambling Place He Opened Brokerage Office—$500,000 is Amount Involved.

"Honest John" Kelly is a financial wreck. Every dollar he had in the world went to-day in the collapse of the firm of John Kelly & Co., of No. 32 Broadway, a stock brokerage house, which specialized in the sale of what was the responsible fund.

As the keeper of gambling-houses and from his association with other sports in which he won his picturesque sobriquet, Kelly amassed a comfortable fortune, and among his followers was regarded as a rich man.

His gambling-house on West Forty-first street, one of the "gilded palaces of the gaming table," was second to none in the city as a "mint" for its owners. But Kelly had higher ambitions.

For "his wife and children's sake," he told his intimates, he wanted to be identified with a more honorable business than the "keeping of a gambling-house." It was that ambition that left him penniless to-day.

Warned Against Wall Street. "Honest John's" close friends warned him against the dangers of Wall street when he confided to them, eighteen months ago, that he intended to turn from the gambling-house to the stock market. His success at the cards and wheel made him confident he could beat the other gambling game.

He had perhaps half a million dollars in his credit when he hung out the shingle with "John Kelly & Co." on it at No. 32 Broadway, a year and a half ago.

To-day, when he put his signature to the statement papers in the office of A. C. Levy, his lawyer, the noted gambler could not hold back his tears.

For anything crooked in this failure, I want to be honest. My creditors may have to wait, and the only thing I hope for is that I will be permitted to live long enough to make good.

"I have given up today. All I want to do is to help pay what I owe. All I want is the clothes on my back. Everything else is theirs. I suppose I'd been all right had I stuck to the sporting business, but then I didn't. I'm not the first man that made a mistake. It's hard luck, but I'll soon be on velvet again."

Kelly a Real "Lamb." When Kelly decided to quit the gambling business for Wall street he took into partnership with his Samuel J. O'Keefe, well known on upper Broadway as "Sammy" O'Keefe, and a young man named Harry L. Cohen. Kelly knew absolutely nothing of the inner ways of Wall street, although like many others who had dabbled a little in stocks, he believed he was a master at the game.

O'Keefe had had considerable experience in the "street." For years he had been connected with the house of Frank Work as head bookkeeper, and later resigned to form the firm of Work & O'Keefe, the head of the concern being Frank Work, Jr. Cohen was recognized as a bright, young man, who had been employed by a number of firms in the street and was said to "know his business."

Kelly was delighted with the prospects of washing his hands of his previous calling and with great glee told his friends of his new venture. The firm did not purchase a seat in any of the exchanges, but did a "commission" business—that is, placed trades for customers through regular exchange brokers, doing most of its business with the Consolidated Exchange.

Honest John the "Angel." On the fifteenth floor of the Hudson Building, at No. 32 Broadway, Kelly established his offices. They were not as handsomely fitted up as his brown-stone gambling-house on Forty-first street, but they had an air of business. There were numerous employees, and the tick of the telegraph instruments

BURIED A BABE ALIVE! MAN AND GIRL IN CELLS.

Charged with burying a child alive a man and a young girl were arrested to-day. They were caught in a trolley car near Yonkers. The woman said the baby was hers.

The motorman of the car on which the arrests were made was the man who summoned the police. He had heard of the incident near Hastings and had a description of the man and woman.

The child had been thrown alive into a hole about three feet deep. A little cane worn by the baby had in some way fallen over the face. This kept away the earth and held the air for a moment.

With frantic haste the man who had been attracted to the spot while the couple were digging the grave threw aside the freshly upturned earth and brought to light the little victim.

Application Made to Increase Stock to $296,000,000.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 22—An application was made to-day to the State Charter Board by A. L. Williams, general attorney for the Union Pacific Railroad Company, for permission to increase the capital stock of the Union Pacific Railroad Company $100,000,000.

The proposed increase is to pay for the interests bought up recently, particularly the purchase of the Colorado interests in the Southern Pacific, giving the Union Pacific control of the Southern Pacific.

The fee for filing the document was $10,200, the largest ever received by the State.

The Brooklyn Club expects to have a little local controversy with the American League over at least one of the "Superior" players. Davis, the slender little Southerner who parades in the left meadow, is the cause of the squabble.

It appears that "Daffy" signed one of the chorine-Mackkillingly contracts a few weeks before Ned Hanlon corralled him to fill the vacancy caused by Jones' jump to the enemy's ranks. SANDY HILL, N. Y., April 22—A young woman masquerading as a man set work here under the name of Joe Adams, has mysteriously disappeared and it is thought she may have been killed for a little money she had.

The young woman was employed by a farmer named Chris Henry. Mrs. Henry discovered the girl's deception and made her don female attire and take her rightful name, Josephine Adams. She worked as a servant girl for Henry until April 15, when she disappeared.

The girl had $30 with her and it is thought she may have been robbed and killed.

SAYS HE IS SON OF GRIGGS

Manufacturer's Truck Driver Claims Part of Estate.

Surrogate Abbott, of Brooklyn, has a family tangle to unravel next Wednesday, when the application of George Monroe to participate in the estate of James Monroe Griggs will be heard. Monroe is thirty years old and had been for ten years the driver of a truck for Mr. Griggs, who was a manufacturer in Manhattan, but lived in Hooper street, Williamsburg. He died last August, intestate, leaving three children, who inherited his estate, valued at $25,000.

George Monroe now comes forward, claiming to be a legitimate son of Griggs. This the children of the deceased deny and will fight him in the courts. They say their father married their mother in 1850, and that she died two years ago.

As Monroe is only thirty years old, they say he cannot be a son by a previous wife, the existence of which they deny.

POISON FOR A PRISONER.

Candidate in Oranges Sent to Witness Against Diamond Robbers.

DENVER, Col., April 22—Chemical tests show that pie oranges and other delicacies sent to Joseph A. Haennelt, a prisoner in the County Jail, contained enough cyanide of potassium to kill all the prisoners in the jail.

Haennelt is the principal witness against a man and a woman charged with having robbed Mrs. Flora Betts of $700 worth of diamonds.
